GRADUATE PROPOSALS

NEW COURSES

Please note that the following course was initially published in the February 14, 2000 issue of Academic Notes as a NEW COURSE PROPOSAL. At some point prior to April 3, 2000, discussions between the English Department and the Languages, Literatures, and Linguistics Department resulted in a total revamping of the course description. The new change was supposed to have been published with the new description under the GRADUATE APPROVALS -- NEW COURSES in the April 3, 2000 issue of Academic Notes. Unfortunately the lines of communication crossed and instead the original course description for LING 622 was published as APPROVED. An attempt to correct the situation resulted in incorrect information being published in the June 26, 2000 issue of Academic Notes -- which only led to yet further confusion.

The following is being published showing LING 622 -- as it should be.

COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES: Foreign Languages, Literatures, & Linguistics

LING 622 Historical Linguistics -- 3 hours. Study of the processes by which languages change through time.

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS: Analytical - Finance

FIN *500 International Financial Management - 3 hours. Theoretical and practical issues of corporate financial management in an international environment. Emphasis placed on decision making by multinational firms in capital budgeting, working capital management, and the procurement of funds in international markets. A research paper and/or an in depth case analysis integrating previous MBA course work is required. Prerequisite: MBA 622 or consent of MBA instructor.

 Course has an undergraduate equivalent*

FIN *534 Security Analysis and Portfolio Management - 3 hours. Examination of the precepts underlying the valuation of securities and an analytical handling of the various techniques of securities analysis. A research paper and/or an in depth analysis integrating previous MBA course work into its content is required. Prerequisite: MBA 622 or consent of MBA instructor.

 Course has an undergraduate level equivalent*

FIN *535 Speculative Markets - 3 hours. Examines both practical and theoretical aspects of financial futures and options markets. Also includes discussions of theoretical models, hedging strategies, and practical uses of these securities. A research paper and/or an in depth analysis integrating previous MBA coursework into its content is required. Prerequisite: MBA 622 or consent of MBA instructor.

FIN *540 Financial Institutions - 3 hours. An examination of the financial system's institutional structure by surveying the public and private sectors of our money and credit economy. Emphasis is placed on understanding the impact of the commercial banking system, financial intermediaries, and public finance needs upon the conduct of business finance.

COURSE REVISIONS

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS: Analytical - Insurance & Risk Management

ACTIONS TAKEN BY THE INDIANA COMMISSION FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

At the December 10, 1999 meeting of the Indiana Commission for Higher Education (ICHE), identified the following Indiana State University Programs as having insufficient enrollment to justify being offered by Indiana State University.

ELIMINATED PROGRAMS

According to the Indiana Commission for Higher Education's (ICHE's) Academic Degree Program Inventory, the following degree was eliminated in 1998. Publication of the following is being done so that a record exists in the curriculum files. Because the ICHE took this action, the Faculty Council's Administrative Affairs Committee's recommendation on October 4, 1999 to BANK/SUSPEND the B.A. in Latin is a moot issue. BANKING or SUSPENDING requested for this program is not a viable option since according to the ICHE, this program no longer exists at Indiana State University.

COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES: Foreign Languages & Literatures

COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES: Languages, Literatures, & Linguistics

Bachelor of Arts in Latin

CIP CODE 161203

CIP-85 CODE 160903

 In 1998 when the Indiana Commission for Higher Education eliminated the Bachelor of Arts in Latin from Indiana State University's Academic Degree Program Inventory, the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Linguistics had a different name - the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures. Since that was the name of the department when this program was eliminated, that is why it is being used here along with the new department name to avoid any future misunderstanding.
