NEW COURSES

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES: Art

ARTS 251 Introduction to Computer Art--3 hours. An introductory course covering the fundamentals of computer art allowing students to explore a range of techniques using a variety of industry standard software for content creation. The latest developments in the field of computer art will be discussed. This course is structured to increase students' understanding of digital media in artistic production, to improve student's ability to create works using computers and their peripheral devices, and to discuss the ways contemporary artists use technology in art.

Preferred effective term Spring 2007

ARTS 351 Intermediate Computer Art--3 hours. This course emphasizes time-based media. Students will develop motion graphic works using compositing, 2D digital animation, digital drawing/painting, and interactive sculpture/installation using various software and other physical materials/techniques exploring intersections between digital and traditional studio practices. Contemporary theory examining the cultural impact and history of digital art will be discussed. The class will investigate narrative structures through experiments in linear and hypertextual navigation with the time-based and sequential capabilities of the computer. Prerequisite: 251 or consent of instructor.

Preferred effective term Spring 2007

ARTS 451 Advanced Computer Art--3 hours. Continuation of 351 with emphasis on more advanced problems in time-based media works. Students will be encouraged to explore different techniques in digital art making including alternative interfaces and experiments with the computer, such as interactive installations with moving images and sound or mixed media projects. Considerable responsibility and autonomy required of each student. May be repeated up to three times. Prerequisite: 351 or consent of instructor.

Preferred effective term Spring 2007
